

Strong Support for the Country

Mothers in the Democratic People's Republic of Korea are sincerely bringing up their children as honest and upright persons by implanting patriotism in them.

They always cherish the words of Kim Jong Un, General Secretary of the Workers' Party of Korea, that the women in the country should be a strong cornerstone of the country in carrying forward the laudable family traditions as well as the national traits.

He is showing such a great care of and trust in them as he sees the matter of giving right education to the children not as a simple one of carrying forward the family traditions but as an ennobling revolutionary undertaking for training the reliable heirs to the revolution.

He once took it upon himself to have a research institute built for better care of the women's health; on one occasion he wrote a reply to a woman to tell her that he thought it is the mindset of all mothers in the world to regard it as a source of their pleasure and the greatest worth of their life to see their children make a good career; on another occasion he took an important measure to provide quality cosmetics to mothers.

Under his care the mothers are making devoted efforts to bring up their children as reliable heirs to the revolution and talents of the country, finding their pride and worth of life in it. They are implanting in them the idea of valuing their country, collective and friends aware of the great care of the Workers' Party of Korea and the socialist system for them.

Thanks to his leadership they are playing an ever growing role with a lofty patriotic spirit, and the country is advancing confidently towards a bright future.