

Like the Current of Sobaek Stream

One winter day, the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un went round the revolutionary battle sites in the Mt Paektu area.

After looking round the log cabin for the Headquarters of the Korean People's Revolutionary Army in the Paektusan Secret Camp, he arrived at the Sobaek Stream. Noting that if I did not put my feet in its water for what we had come here, he first stepped into the water.

Dipping out the running water with his hands, he said with a smile that it was not cold.

Looking up at him, the accompanying officials were deeply moved, but they could not understand his inmost thought.

After feasting his eyes on the stream, he said: The days go by just as the water of the stream keeps flowing. The generations of the revolution are also being replaced by another. We should carry out the revolution through generations just as time passes and the water of the Sobaek Stream flows continuously. We should defend and carry forward the revolutionary spirit of Paektu and the revolutionary tradition of Paektu from one generation to the next, no matter how the world may change.

It was a meaningful instruction.

The indomitable might of our people who win one victory after another overcoming manifold hardships is based on the revolutionary spirit of Paektu and the revolutionary tradition of Paektu. And the invincibility of the revolutionary cause of Juche lies in steadily carrying forward the proud spirit and tradition.

The officials were firmly convinced that the ranks of indomitable revolutionaries and patriots carrying forward the great revolutionary spirit and tradition through generations would continue their dynamic advance just like the current of the Sobaek Stream.
